Learn More

Search for books, eBooks, scholarly journal or newspaper articles, videos, streaming media, and much more—all from one search box.

Searching is easy. Sign in, enter your key word(s) in the search box on the library website and click Go. Use the Refine My Results options to narrow your results to a particular type of resource (book, article, video, etc.), or to limit by topic or date. You can further limit your search results to those in peer-reviewed journals, to online resources, or to material available only in the NAIT Library.

The new search tool will access most of the articles and resources available in the library databases but not all of them. Check your Program Resource Guide or the Databases Category list to find out which databases you need to search separately to find the best sources for your topic. To search further for journal articles in specific disciplines, click the Find Articles and More tab from the library website and select subject-specific databases.

Sign into My Account to check what you've borrowed or have on hold or to renew your materials online. Save your search queries, organize saved items in folders, or add titles to your e-Shelf workspace for storage. Select similar articles using the Recommendations tab.

A mobile interface is also available.

The library catalogue is still available to search separately as well—click the Find Books and More tab from the library website and click Basic Search.

Click the Help link to learn more. Please contact library staff for assistance via the Ask Us link.
